Brittany Spaniels

Carefully Bred for Dual Quality, Field / Show and Companionship!

OFA & CERF Certified

We believe that the Brittany should be forever the Dual Dog that it still is. It should adhere to the established Breed Standard & live up to its origins of being a premier hunting companion. They should be able to find & point birds with enthusiasm & Style. Then settle in as a loving family pet.

We Breed our dogs only after they have proven themselves in either the Show Ring or in the field. Our dogs must show that they are capable of adding something to our Breed.

They must have their hips OFA (Orthopedic Foundation for Animals) certified clear of Hip Dysplasia and Eyes CERF Certified. We research every breeding well in advance. Our goal is to put top bloodlines together to produce good looking , hard working, very intelligent, & stylish Brittanys with good temperaments. We Breed Carefully so that they can be all that they can be, whether they are loving Family companions / hunting dogs or a Competitor as Field Trial dogs, Show dogs, or for Obedience & Agility Events, Tracking / Search and Rescue Dogs / Therapy dogs. Our goal is always for the advancing of our breed in the many years to come. They are intelligent and able to do what the Brittany was meant to do - Hunt and point and Retrieve Birds.

Brittanys are a contagious addiction!

We have some advice to all that have chosen The Brittany as their dog. Brittanys are of the Sporting Group & with that comes a dog that is born to run & find birds. Now a Brittany can adapt to it's Owners way of life but in order for it to be the best companion, you must be willing to put the time into Obedience training! Our Brittanys are very smart & learn quickly & are willing to please. They are people dogs and do better with lots of human contact but I'll stress it again, you must be willing to put in the time for the Brittanys Obedience. Then you will be able to enjoy this breed for life and probably be hooked to this breed forever!

We have been able to achieve Top Ranking Standings for Brittanys with the Canadian Kennel Club in Show and Puppy / Derby Field Trials and Obedience Trials.

*Our Brittany's are more than Just Beautiful Show Dogs,
They hunt with Style & Strong Desire!
A Brief Background on the Brittany*

Brittanys are known as - Brittanys in the USA, l'Epagneul Breton in it's home land of France & Brittany Spaniel in Canada. Little is known of where the spaniel of Northern coast of France came from. The spaniel has been captured though on the canvas of the Flemish Masters of the 17 th century. The first recorded brittany being shown was in Paris in 1896. The first Brittanys were brought to North American in 1912. The American Kennel Club recognized the Breed in 1934 but did not approve the Standard until March 1935. In the USA the word Spaniel was taken of the end of it's name in 1982. This is because the Brittany is a pointing dog & not a flushing dog like the rest of the spaniels. The Brittany can do it all! In the field, this member of the sporting group both points & retrieves game on land or in water. Brittanys are very smart and excel at Obedience Trials & they do well in Agility & Tracking also!! With a little bit of patience, a positive attitude & obedience classes, you will have a dog that will bring you joy and you may be hooked to this breed forever! Well-mannered Brittanys are just as well suited for the home. They have boundless enthusiasm & enduring patience with children. The Brittany far exceeds any other breed for earning Dual Championships for Show & Field!! This is not a breed to be left outside. Their No.1 demand is love!! If you offer friendship to your Brittany it will live for your praise. Crate training can do wonders for minimizing the stress of being home alone & helps with housebreaking. They are a soft dog and can become with-drown when treated too sternly.

A Brittany is a compact, closely knit dog of medium size with a leggy appearance as well as the agility of a great ground coverer.Strong & Energetic, Ruggedness without clumsiness is a characteristic of this breed. He can be a Natural Bob tail or has a docked tail of no more then 4 inches. In size the Brittany came be 17 1/2 inches to 20 1/2 inches for either male or female. They should weigh between 30 & 40 pounds. The height at the Shoulders should be the same as the length of body.Bone structure should give you the look of sturdiness. Head should be alert & eager with eyes well set in head and protected by heavy,expressive eyebrows.Eyes should be dark to light amber but never mean looking. A Brittanys ears should set high on the head & be short & triangular , reaching about half the length of the muzzle. A medium length neck & deep chest reaching down to the elbows. The back should be short & straight with a slight slope from withers to root of tail. The coat should be dense, flat or wavy but not curly. The skin should be fairly loose. Colors are Orange & White or Liver & White, either clear or Roan. Some ticking is desirable. Any Black in coat or nose is a disqualification.

The Brittany requires only a few minutes of brushing each day to maintain his lovely coat.

Brittany's usually have exceptionally friendly temperaments, they love people and get along well with other dogs, cats and kids if socialized well.

CHOOSING A BRITTANY

BRITTANYS AREN'T FOR EVERYONE!
BE WELL INFORMED BEFORE YOU DECIDE TO GET ONE

WHAT A BRITTANY NEEDS They can make excellent family dogs and excel in many areas, but they require personal attention every day, training and most do not make good "kennel" or outdoor dogs. This breed is still bred to hunt and many of their behaviors and traits are due to that breeding. Brittany people love those very qualities, but it is essential that you be well informed before deciding on this breed.

LIKE ALL DOGS, Brittanys need food and regular veterinary care, including routine checkups and vaccinations. They are generally very good eaters, and must not be allowed to get fat (average weight is 35-45 lbs.). They need a few good toys, especially if left alone for long periods of time. We prefer a couple of "real" bones (bought in a pet store), an occasional cow hoof to clean teeth, and a ball or a Kong. We highly recommend crate training for all dogs. Being crate trained makes housebreaking vastly easier, and will give the dog a safe way to travel. And if he ever needs to spend the night at the vet, it will be less traumatic if he has learned that a crate is a safe haven. Brittanys usually use a #300, or Intermediate, size crate (about 23" high).

ONE OF THE ADVANTAGES of a Brittany is that it is not a high-maintenance dog in terms of coat care and upkeep. Coat maintenance is easy, with no clipping necessary if your dog is strictly a pet. It will need a good brushing with a slicker brush once or twice a week to get out dead hair (especially at the start of fall and spring), and to make sure the dog is free of parasites such as fleas or ticks. Don't forget nail clippers! Long nails are not only unattractive and ruin a dog's feet, but the longer they get the more danger there is of one being torn off. For the pet, bathe only when the dog is very dirty and a good thorough brushing won't do the job. You can use any basic dog shampoo for this.

IT IS A MISCONCEPTION that all Brittanys are high-strung and need many miles of exercise everyday. If you meet enough Brittanys from different lines, you'll find that what the breeders tell you is true - Brittanys are not a breed for generalizations. They range from mellow to extremely active, big to small, soft tempered to stubborn. But even Brittanys who run continuously outdoors will most often settle down when inside with their family.

BRITTANYS DO REQUIRE ATTENTION EVERY DAY, though. .

They are most definitely people-oriented dogs and want to get as much attention as any other member of the family. They may let you know they aren't getting enough attention by their undesirable behaviors, Like Digging.

OBEDIENCE TRAINING IS ALWAYS A PLUS to help make a good pet. Brittanys vary in temperament, and each requires a different method of training as some are very sensitive ("soft") and require only verbal corrections, while others need to be forced to do the right thing a few times before they will obey. Training and socializing from an early age is very important to develop a happy Britt and owner. Brittanys are very adaptable and an older dog can easily learn the rules of a new house and family, but a good obedience class is an excellent place to establish ground rules. It's a good way to form a bond between you and your new dog.

BRITTANYS USUALLY LIVE 12-14 YEARS, so anyone contemplating getting a Brittany needs to be prepared to make that kind of commitment to the dog. This is an active breed that will require plenty of daily attention for many years.

COMPETITION IF YOU ARE INTERESTED IN THE MANY ACTIVITIES in which the Brittany is able to compete, be sure to discuss this with the breeder of the dog you plan to get, or talk to other people involved in that aspect. There are many people in our breed who are willing to help newcomers get started. If You choose to Spay or neuter your Brittany can still be eligible to participate in any activity except Dog Shows. The most common activities Brittanys often compete in are:

- Field Trials (for the finished field dog or promising youngster)
- Dog Shows (to find the dog that is structurally closest to the Standard of perfection)
- Hunting Tests (for hunting companions of all levels of ability)
- Obedience Trials (for the obedience trained dog)
- Tracking Tests (for tracking certified dogs who can follow a scent on the ground)
- Agility Trials (for dogs trained to go over, under, and through obstacles on a course)
- Junior Showmanship (for kids 10-18 with any breed dog - show handling judged, not dog) Also Pee-wee and Novice for Kids 3 +

IF YOU GO TO AN EVENT in your area, many breeders/exhibitors will be able to help you get started with your Brittany in any of these areas. Again, these are "DUAL DOGS" and many show exhibitors also hunt and compete in other activities with their Britts, so ask around.

Is there a difference between Male and Female like most Breeds?

Brittanys are a different kind all together. Each dog (Male or Female) has its own Personality & Traits! You can get a very affectionate Male or female or a very busy Male or female. I know this doesn't help! You have to be willing to take the good with the bad and if you get a busier Brittany then you have to be willing to put in the extra mile in his or her training to get control.

Brittanys are very smart and want to please you and be with you. Most Brittanys want to be your shadow & will follow you all over the house. Some may test you more then others. But in the end if you can wait out the tough times you'll have an awesome dog that most people get hooked on and end up getting more for life. I have owners that are now on their 2nd and 3rd Brittanys from me. There are a few people that are just not right for a Brittany. They just can't get past the Terrible 2's stage or they never set rules or never took them to Obedience Classes and put in the time after class lessons and this is all important

My First Brittany became a mellow old girl (Jayma , passed away May 2004 at 13.5 years old) who calmed down at about 2 years old but her daughter Kiddy (that passed away on me in 2000 at 4 years old due to an accident) Calmed down at about 15 months but her daughter Dixie is a going concern and she is going to be 7 years old soon. Dixie does calm down after she has seen you and finished racing around the house then she loves to sit on your lap and wants to be the one to get the most hugs but she does not stay for long. I have her son and he was a cuddle bug at 7 months old but that happens after he finishes his Mom's race around the house. But he become Calmer when he turned 4 years old. One of my owners had a real nightmare of a male who would run at the first crack of the door but they did not take him to classes and they kept him in an out door run or chained to the back door while he was inside. I tried to tell them they needed a Good class. They did move and I got him a new home. Dan Dennis From Regina just lost in Death his old Brittany (Chance - one of my first pups) and was up for the chance to try and give Kody a good home. Dan just loves him! Kody got fixed and that might have helped too. But Dan spends lots of time training and working with him and has the attitude that all Brittanys are wonderful. Dan would never part with Kody now. Kody is a good boy in the house now and very calm. Dan has a real special heart and I think that might have helped Kody too. Now Jason has a real mellow boy Ranger, my 99 National Specialty Best Puppy, he has always been mellow. Ranger's owners have 3 Daughters. When people meet Ranger and he just lays down spread eagle they just can't believe his is so calm. But yet he is a Bird hunter with his first Field Test Title. So he chooses to use his energy for hunting Birds.

So I'm sorry I can't tell you one is better then the other. Male or Female, They are one of a kind.

I'd like to say that Brittanys can get along great with Children and Pets but they don't make good Guard dogs because they love people a lot! They have also been known to get along with Cats, Dogs, Pet Birds, Rabbits, and Horses if properly socialized.

I hope you have enjoyed this Brochure! Take a look through my website for lots pictures and information about Brittanys. Feel Free to email me if you would like more information or would like to be on my waiting list for a beautiful top quality puppy. Sometimes my waiting lists can be long but a good quality family companion is worth waiting for.

Sincerely Lori Haldorson
